BATH STREETS.

When and How First Named.

In the year 1805, so far as now appears, names were first given to streets in what is now the city of Bath. It is possible that names were applied to some of the streets before that year, but it is quite certain that no names were officially established until the date mentioned. In 1805 a committee was appointed to report names for the streets then in the town of Bath. Mr. Wm. Webb was chairman of the committee, and on the first day of April the same year he made the following report.

The old town road, leading to the Ferry, —High street.

The county road, —Washington street.

From the southwest corner of Wm. King's land over Shaw's Point, New Bridge &c., —Front street.

From the Gun house to Sam'l Davis' store, —South street.

From Maj. Page's barn to Shaw's Point, —Center street.

From the southwest corner of land belonging to Thomas Barker to Wm. King's Esq., —Vine street.

From Capt. C. Cushing's house to Caleb Marsh's store, —North street.

From the county road to the Widow Turner's store, —Oak street.

From the country road to Moody & Clapp's Point, —Fore street.

From John Richardson's store to the county road, —Federal street.

From the first parish Meeting House to the county road, —Union street.

From the dwelling house belonging to the estate of Theodore Card, down to Sam'l Davis' store, —Water street.

From the county road to John Noyes' store, —Summer street.

A committee, of which Joshua Shaw was chairman, in December 1805, reported a street, —"Beginning on the east side of Washington street on the line between Wm. Webb's, Esq., land and land of Elizabeth Mathews, carrying the width of two rods, that is, one rod on each side of said line, east of the great bridge on Front street." This report was accepted by the town, March 17, 1806. When this street was first called Elin street does not appear.

May 6, 1811, the town accepted a road from William Low's house to Washington street, and called the same School street.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is an extract of the best remedies of the vegetable kingdom known as Alteratives and Blood Purifiers.
